Debut album, Western Lights, out now!

South Wales based indie rockers BenSem reveal a contemplative and introspective side on their new single Science Project, released on BenSem Records on April 29th. Taken from their critically acclaimed debut album, Western Lights, Science Project revels in emotional and poignant imagery, conjured up by enigmatic lead singer Craig (Sem) Semmens stirring lyrical and vocal expertise. A reminiscent tale of a man's heart taking over his world, Science Project's powerful riffs and melodies are testament to BenSem's deep and passionate approach to their music making, and offers a rare glimpse into a gift afforded to few contemporary artists.

Industry critics have waxed lyrical about debut offering Western Lights, with Plugged In Magazine describing the band as "world class" and indyconcerts.com branding the album "phenomenal". It's no wonder then that Science Project looks set to cause quite the stir upon its release. 2009 is shaping up to be a celebrated year for BenSem, with a documentary feature courtesy of ITV Wales, a recent US management deal and collaboration with some of the music industry's top producers including Howie Weinberg (Nirvana).
